

Would you participate in company sponsored local food program?
written by | July 6, 2015

Would you participate in a company sponsored local food program?

Crutchfield Corporation has partnered with the Local Food Hub to provide a CSA (Community Supported Agriculture) style local food program for its employees. Crutchfield is covering a percentage of the cost for each employee participating in the program.

We'd like to know, if your employer partially funded a local CSA program, would you join?